

If the specified condition is true it will execute all the statement specified within the curly brackets followed by if then the control will flow out of if statement. If the specified condition is false control will pass out of if statement by ignoring all the statements specified within the curly brackets. It is a simplest of if statement where we can specify what is to be done when condition is true.

Curly brackets are not compulsory if the curly brackets are not specified then it will consider only one statement when the specified
